Design and Technology

Design and Technology (D&T) is an inspiring and practical subject which will help prepare all our children to live and work in our ever changing world.

Here at St Wilfrid's we will teach the six requirements of the new national curriculum. These are: user, purpose, functionality, design decisions, innovation and authenticity.

Children will have the opportunity to gain new knowledge, skills and understanding in these areas by taking part in a wide range of designing and making projects. Children will also develop their knowledge of nutrition and take part in cooking sessions.
